

Problem Statement:

A comprehensive resource for mental health awareness in schools doesn't exist.

Why? If not for the lack of accessible information and programs tailored to students, educators, and parents, many are unaware of the mental health challenges students have.

So then what? Maybe we could research existing resources and identify gaps in awareness and support

So then what? I could develop a program or platform that provides educational materials, tools, and resources specifically designed for schools to raise awareness about mental health issues.

Problem restated: A dedicated platform for mental health resources are available, there are none specifically tailored to the school environment that effectively engage students and reduce stigma.
